Introduction

The NARIC Guide to Disability and Rehabilitation Periodicals contains information about a wide range of journals, magazines, and newsletters that address issues relating to disabilities and rehabilitation. It is designed to provide information about specific periodicals, as well as to introduce you to periodicals you may not have known about.

This guide describes over 400 periodicals. The main criteria NARIC used for selection were subject relevance and at least national scope (and many have international scope). Their size and frequency were not considerations for selection—they range from two pages to over 100; some are published every week, some only once per year. The entries are divided into nine broad categories for convenient browsing; since many publications fit logically in more than one chapter, some entries have been double-listed for greater accuracy. In addition, there are two indexes; Index A lists publications alphabetically by title, and Index B lists publications by subject covered.

Unless otherwise noted in the entry, the amount listed after "price" is the cost of a domestic subscription for one year. People in other countries should contact the publisher for foreign rates before subscribing. Also, while we have attempted to make the pricing information as accurate as possible, you may wish to obtain current rates from the publisher before subscribing.

Publishers had the option of submitting (or revising) a description of their publication and subject terms (i.e., the main subjects of the periodical). In some instances the subject terms were revised to conform to the controlled vocabulary used in NARIC's database, REHABDATA, as defined in the REHABDATA Thesaurus.

Readers of past editions of the Guide have also found it useful as an introduction to some of the resources available at NARIC. Except where indicated in the descriptions, NARIC has the last two years of every magazine and journal listed here, and many of the newsletters.

We hope you enjoy the 1991 NARIC Guide to Disability and Rehabilitation Periodicals.
